

INTRODUCTION TO ENVIRONMENT AND BEHAVIORS

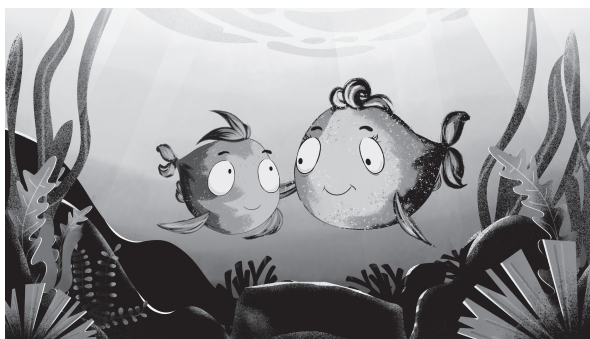

WITH SAM THE FISH AND

The relationships we have with others can have both risk and protective factors.

Social Risk Factors

Social Protective Factors

Social protective factors are the relationships that we have with others that are safe, supportive, and nurturing. Social risk factors are relationships that do not provide these qualities.

Physical Risk Factors

Physical Protective Factors

Physical protective factors are physical spaces and places that are safe, provide adequate resources, and support. Physical risk factors may not have these qualities.
